The thesis explores and contributes these results to the architectural theoretical system:

- Clarify and break the structure of the vernacular architecture down into the methodologies and aspects in expressing the vernacular traits corresponding to the local environment, to systematize the theoretical ideas in vernacular architecture.
- Construct an criteria system for vernacular architecture in Vietnam’s modern architecture (including 7 groups and 25 criteria). This criteria system has been applied in practice in some specific architectural works.
- Propose some perceptions, rules and tips to raise the effectiveness of the vernacular traits in Vietnam’s modern architecture; from which it can be developed into an architectural design methodology to express the vernacular characteristics in practice.
